Interrogation of Subject by this Agent in C. Orr on 5 March 1947 and in the interrogation room of this office on 6 March 1947 (Subject's removal from Camp Marcus A. Orr for interrogation on 6 March 1947 was authorized per FAX message No. 6, dated 6 March 1947, from CIB to USSIC, and his return to the camp on the same day at 1710 hours was reported to CIB by FAX message No. 7, dated 7 March 1947) determined the following:

BURGER Anton, born 19 November 1911 in Neunkirchen, Land Niederösterreich, graduate of a business school in Neunkirchen in 1925, served in the Austrian Bundesheer in Wiener Neustadt from 1930 until 1933, attaining the rank of corporal. He was discharged from the service on suspicion of sympathy with the NSDAP.

Following a period of unemployment from 1933 until 1935, during which time he disclaimed NSDAP activities, Subject became an SS-Member in Vienna in 1935 and was assigned for six weeks to the file section of the SS office in Vienna, Rothschild Palais.

From October 1935 until July 1939 Subject, still an SS-Member, worked in the "Zentralstelle fuer Juedische Auswanderung" in Vienna, issuing to Jewish applicants their emigration documents which had been processed by the "Zentralstelle". From Fall 1939 until Summer 1940 Subject was assigned to the "Zentralstelle fuer die Regelung der Judenfrage in Böhmen und Mähren" in Prague, Czechoslovakia, being promoted to an SS-Oberscharführer in Fall 1939. In Prague, Subject's duties were Subject, promoted to SS-Obersturmführer in 1940, was assigned to the "Zentralstelle" in Prague, which was the central office for the "Verwaltungsgasse" in Prague. Subject was in charge of the administration (bookkeeping, renting, leasing) of real estate in the city of Prague formerly belonging to Jewish residents. During Subject's period of duty the Verwaltungsgasse administered a total of five to eight hundred former Jewish houses. From 1941 until late in 1942, Subject was in charge of the Arno (Brunn) office of the "Verwaltungsgasse", administering approximately twelve to fifteen hundred former Jewish houses in Vienna. In 20 April 1941, he was promoted to an SS-Obersturmführer in the SD.

Allegedly because of a disagreement with his superior, SS-Obersturmführer GÜNTHER HORN, commanding officer of the "Zentralstelle" in Prague, Subject was ordered to report to the higher headquarters of the "Zentralstelle", Section IV B 4, Reichsicherheitshauptamt in Berlin, headed by SS-Obersturmführer EICHMANN Adolf and SS-Obersturmführer GÜNTHER HORN. Subject's duties during his assignment to Section IV B 4 in Berlin from the end of 1942 until June 1943 included frequent trips as a courier to Vienna, Rome, and the concentration camps in Breslau, delivering "secret Reich matters" (secret Reich matters) to the SD offices in these places. Subject disclaimed knowledge of the contents of these "secret Reich matters".

On instructions from EICHMANN, in June 1943 Subject replaced SS-Obersturmführer SEIDL as commanding officer of the concentration camp in Breslau, whose removal was ordered by the SD in Berlin. Subject believed SEIDL was executed by the Volksgericht in Vienna in 1944. EICHMANN advised Subject that the concentration camp was to become "ein Schicksal" (a model camp for inspection) and that the SD was to inspect the camp and the SD was to Subject stated that, during interrogations, he had denied membership in the SS and had explained his blood mark as a blood donor's mark. He said that he had never been fully interrogated by American investigators. He had had to remain unrecognized until his American departure. For this reason, he had denied his membership in the SS when first interrogated by this Agent on 5 March 1947 and even during the first part of the second interrogation on 6 March 1947.

Subject named the following SS-personalities assigned to the concentration camp Theresienstadt during his period of service:
